[1] The WLTP range is the distance a 100% electric car can travel on a full battery, measured according to a standardized testing method. This test takes into account realistic driving conditions, such as speed, temperature, and use of accessories, so you get a better idea of how far you can drive before needing to recharge. This allows for fair comparison between car models, though the actual range may vary in daily use (due to weather conditions or driving style).

Prices without prepayment excl. VAT. Contract for 60 months and 10.000 km per year. Metallic paint finishing included:
